THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT, given to Mr. R. B. Raymond, in the vestry of the Cong. Church in East Weymouth, on the evening of April 30th, was a complete success, it being universally pronounced the best concert given in town, the past season. Mr. Raymond was assisted by Miss Ruth W. Holbrook, Mr. H. S. Jaycox, of Boston, Mr. R. F. Raymond, and Mr. W. F. B. Raymond, and also by the East Weymouth Orchestra, an organization of our citizens felt justly proud. From the Overture, to the final every piece received a hearty encore. Miss Holbrook was in excellent voice, and her rendering of the song, "Non Fort Sogno," (I was not vision) was one of the best she has ever given.

Where all that was done, was done so well, it is hard to decide where belongs the highest praise. In the Overture, by B. S. Lovell, and Miss Holbrook, and in the Four Part Song, "Greeting to Spring," arranged from Strauss' Blue Danube Waltzes, great taste and skill were displayed. While Mr. Raymond's interpretation, and execution on the Piano, were such as only a master hand can produce. In the Clarinet Solo, by Mr. Raymond, we have an example of what may be done by perseverance. It is only eight months since he took up this instrument, and now he ranks high among the solo performers in the State. To his efforts, he cannot be given the credit, for he is regarded as enviable, by the best performers in our musical ranks.

Besides his study, Mr. Raymond is constantly engaged in composing, and his pieces are pronounced by competent judges to be of a very high order.

Mr. R. B. Raymond, dedicated to Mr. R. B. Raymond, was given at the concert, for the first time, and amid a burst of applause our young composer was called upon the audience, to receive their congratulations.

We congratulate the music loving people of East Weymouth, on having such an array of talent, and hope to see in the future, more of Mr. Raymond's compositions.

[Letter from our correspondent "Pete" gives us further particulars of the concert, and ventilates a bit of fun connected with the entertainment.]

"THE COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT" given in East Weymouth to R. B. Raymond was a complete success. The Committee, Rev. Mr. McElroy, Joseph T. P. W. French, B. S. Lovell, paid the expenses and sent Mr. Raymond a check for $70. Miss Ruth Holbrook seemed to be the star of the evening. On her side of the matter the matter has not been decided, the honor lying between a gentleman introduced as Jaycox, (who is a relative of Ezra Dicknell), and J. S. Porter. It was left to a committee, who will report at some future time. The talent was of the first quality, in every respect, and to the deception the following letter is an explanation.

East Weymouth, May 1, 1874.

Mr. R. B. Raymond: I feel it my duty, as a true friend, to inform you at once of the feeling created in this village in regard to your concert of last evening. Many of your friends, who were there, have called me to account, and have spoken of the music, both vocal and instrumental, in the very highest terms of praise; but they say they cannot account for your strange conduct in not introducing an East Weymouth audience before Ezra Dicknell, of Fort Hill, as Mr. Jaycox, of Boston. They all say that they detected the deception, the moment he stepped upon the stage and presented his familiar face and form to their view. They also knew him by the hair on the top of his head, or rather, the place where the hair ought to be, and they asked them to wait and not to be so severe on you until the facts of the case were better known.

I am aware that Peter French had a hand in that business, and probably he was the guilty one who attempted the deception, and you might have been as much surprised as any one to see him. I would advise you to "go for Peter" at once, and have the responsibility placed where it belongs, and remove at once from your good name the stigma of a deception which might eventually attack it. Your true friend and obedient servant, J. S. PORTER.

RE-UNION.—The Weymouth High School Association will hold its annual re-union in June next. Tickets are procured of Miss Fanny Bartlett, Alex. French, Old Spain; Miss Nancy Bates, North Weymouth; Willie H. Pratt, Nellie D. Nash, East Weymouth; Charles B. Cushing, Middle Street; Miss Susan Blanchard, Miss Abby Burrell, Lovell's Corner; Miss Annie Darcy, Amasa Smith, Weymouth Landing. Those who wish to join the Association can do so by applying to either of the above.

RUNAWAY.—The horse of A. J. Bates & Co., attached to their grocery wagon, ran away on Monday afternoon, and dashing through the Square, struck the dwelling of Dr. A. G. Nye, tearing off a portion of the corner of the building. The horse then ran into the yard of T. B. Porter, where he was secured.

TEMPERANCE.—A series of temperance meetings have been held at North Weymouth, under the direction of Mutual Lodge of Good Templars, which have been well attended and created a renewed interest in the reform.

SNOW.—A resident of Weymouth, who returned from down east a few days since, felt that he rode fourteen miles in a sleigh, the sleighing being extra good. This accounts for the backwardness of his horses in these parts.

CARRIAGE ACCIDENT.—Mr. Chas. W. Merritt, of Scituate, was thrown from his carriage, by his horse suddenly shying in turning the corner of Lincoln Square, Weymouth Landing, Tuesday evening. The carriage being overturned, Mr. Merritt was stunned by striking on his head, and also severely bruised. He was taken to Mr. Ambler's drug store, and proper remedies applied.

PRAYER MEETINGS.—The Baptist Society of Weymouth have voted to devote a portion of the service on Tuesday evenings in their vestry, to a prayer meeting, and invite the attendance of all interested in sacred song.

IMPORTANT TO CONSUMERS OF ICE.—Messrs. R. Lord & Son, of South Weymouth, have recently patented an ice chest, which is warranted to give satisfaction, and as will be proved by advertisement. Mr. Alvan Holmes is prepared to furnish them at low prices.

VISIT.—The Rockland Lodge of Knights of Pythias visited their brethren of Delphi Lodge, Weymouth, Thursday evening of last week, and were most cordially received and hospitably entertained.

LECTURE.—The first lecture in the course given by the Young People of the Union Church of Weymouth and Braintree, delivered by Gilbert Nash, Esq., last Tuesday evening, was rather thinly attended, and an effort will be made by those interested to secure a larger audience at the next lecture, to be given by Rev. Mr. Huntress, two weeks hence.

South Weymouth Matters.

V. M. C. A. MEETING.—Your readers are aware that there has been a series of religious meetings in this place during the past week. They have been very interesting, and I have no doubt will be productive of great good. The last of the series, which was conducted by friends from abroad, took place on Friday evening, May 1st, at Rev. Mr. McLean's vestry. The spacious rooms were crowded, many persons not being able to gain entrance. The services were given in an interesting, and to be in an attentive audience. The theme selected by one of the speakers (Mr. Burnell) as one calculated more than all others to win souls to the cause of Christianity, was "Friendliness." The speaker enlarged upon the subject to a great extent, giving abundant and beautiful illustrations of its power and beauty. I am sure those that heard him will not forget the earnestness and tender pathos with which he brought this subject to bear upon the hearts of his hearers.

FIRE DISTRICT MEETING.—The annual meeting of the South Weymouth Fire District was held at Union Hall, Tuesday evening, May 5th, at 8 o'clock. The following list of officers were chosen for the ensuing year:—Chief Engineer, Gen. L. L. Bates, Assistant Engineers, 1st, J. W. French, 2d, J. W. French, 3d, J. W. French, 4th, J. W. proceeded at once to the railroad and walked direct to Pittsburgh. I stopped at several places but don't know the names of the places. I came over to Pittsburgh and went to see my friend Baler, on Pennsylvania street, I think. I don't know locations very well. I was never in Pittsburgh more than three times. After leaving Baler's, I crossed over to Allegheny City. I crossed a covered bridge and went to several breweries to get work. I purchased a suit of clothes and finally was arrested."

It has been ascertained that the parents of Ortwien, who live in Stittgarrt, are well off. During the Franco-Prussian war he was drafted, but deserted and came to this country.

One of the closing acts in this dreadful tragedy was the consigning to the grave of the remains of the murdered family. There were two bodies.

largest of which held the remains of Mr. and Mrs. Hammet and the two children, Ida and Emma. In another and smaller coffin lay Bobbie Smith. These horrible objects were kept enclosed until after the ceremonies were concluded in the church. The edifice was filled to overflowing with anguished-stricken men and women who, in a great measure, were neighbors of the murdered family.

A Woman as a Lawyer.

A correspondent recalls an incident in the District Court of Washington, happening thirty years ago, when that great American litigant, Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines, was more beautiful if not less belligerent than she is now. One of her cases was in progress before Judge Buchanan, and the lawyers, offended at the court's rulings, and wrangling among themselves, withdrew. Mrs. Gaines and her warrior spouse were present, the General attired in full uniform, his sword clanking on the floor at his every movement. When the lawyers withdrew, the elderly General, leading his wife to the bar, addressed the court. He said that he was educated for the bar, and in early youth impressed with the profoundest reverence for the civil courts of his country. Perhaps, he continued, in the view of the world and of the court, it would be his duty to supply the place of his wife's lawyers. If it were a duty that he thought himself adequate to perform, he would not shrink from it, for the lady, besides being his wife, was the daughter of his old friend, Daniel Clark, to whom he was bound, by many ties of ancient friendship and service in the maintenance of the rights of his friendless daughter. This service he should be bound as a soldier and a gentleman to render to any lady in like circumstances. But the lady was far more able to argue her case than he was, he begged that she be allowed to conduct her own case. Having thus delivered himself, the chivalrous old chap gently tapped his sword, and turning to the opposing counsel remarked:—"For whatever the lady shall say or do, I hold myself responsible to the full measure and in every manner recognized among gentlemen. The Judge was not at all pleased with the General's bearing, and reminded him that a display of military pomp and menace could not be allowed in that court. The General courteously begged to assure his Honor that he appeared in military dress out of respect for the court, and in strict conformity with the regulations of the service. The sword which he wore would never be drawn with more alacrity than in the defense of the civil authorities and tribunals of his country. Mrs. Gaines went in and won.

Fatally Assaulted.

Joseph Wattle, the murderer, who was hanged at Catskill, assaulted his keeper, Charles Ernst, in his cell, at 3 p. m., the day before the execution, by striking him on the head with a piece of iron, crushing the skull. During the week officer Ernst had guarded Wattle in his cell in order that he should commit no injury to himself. The murder was committed some time before it was discovered. The officer was found lying on the floor unconscious.

But he was dead when heeping, om, one ce occa- center. heeping. re they fearful r. She dead in xe and a cry She did possession of Waltz. The victim lived only fifteen minutes after medical aid was summoned. The prisoner manifested a stolid indifference as to his horrible deed. The excitement was intense, and at least 2,000 persons collected around the jail, threatening to break down the doors and lynch the prisoner, and it is believed, that but for the assurance of Gov. Dix that Waltz would not be reprieved, he would have been lynched.

Did He Do It?

Some time in the month of March a little girl named Katie Curran, living in South Boston, nearly opposite the place where the Millen boy lived, disappeared suddenly and mysteriously. Active measures were at once inaugurated in hopes of finding her alive, or at least of recovering her body. A reward was offered by the Mayor for any information that should dispel the mystery, and strenuous efforts have been making ever since, but with no avail. The affair is as dark to-day as it was at the time of its announcement. Not a word has been heard of the missing girl. It is now suggested that Pomeroy, the boy with the white eye, knows something about this case, and it is possible that he may some day confess a connection with the disappearance of little Katie Curran, and furnish the information so earnestly sought for by her friends and the police.

Bought It.

An interesting story is told of the late Benj. Mott, of Alburgh, Vt. Nov. 6, 1838, Mott left his home to join the Canadian rebels under Gagnon. Côté. As he went out of the house, his wife, who was unaware of his intention, asked him to bring back a pound of tea. In the battle which occurred on the next day Mott was captured, conveyed to Montreal, tried and condemned to death. His sentence was commuted to banishment to Van Dieman's Land, now Tasmania. Seven years after his capture he was restored to liberty, and circumnavigated the globe, eventually reaching home. He bought his wife the pound of tea.

Running "Amok."

A correspondent of the London Daily News writes from Batavia that he has received intelligence of the most terrible instances of an "Amok" murder which has occurred in the Indian archipelago.
The case was that of a escaped convict, and the scene of the wholesale slaughter committed by this man is Ternia, a small island not far from Sumatra. He ventured upon Ternia one afternoon of January 13th to the bazaar in the chief town of the island, where he bought some tobacco. He drew his knife and killed a woman and a child, and a child—and with his reach, wounding and killing nineteen persons in less time than it takes to mention it.
After the deed he called out to somebody in the crowd to throw him a stick jungle which begins at the back of the town and runs up to the densely wooded hills. Of the nineteen wounded persons fifteen are dead, some killed right off, others lingering for a day or two.
For ten days this ruffian remained at large, to the great fear of the town and neighborhood. He ventured to venture out after dusk, and one and all shunning the "passar" or bazaar. During these ten days, regular, volunteer and night watchmen were sent out scouring the woods and jungles. He was finally captured, after wandering three days of his pursuers, who were armed natives sent out by the Dutch government.
His captors took him, after chopping off his head, they literally cut his body into mince-meat.
This strange mixture of child and tiger—harmless in a general way and given to childlike pleasures, but, their passions once aroused, they become very ferocious. This is caused by the fact that the most frequent cause being of their "Amoks." A gang of one hundred to two hundred convicts may often be seen unattended by any guard, and even unattended by a few unarmed native guards or jailers; the convicts themselves frequently carrying axes, heavy clubs, and other weapons. About thirty per cent. of these are probably murderers—a percentage nearly doubled in Sumatra—yet as they march along in single file, dressed in white tunics, school-boys; and should one of them be the happy possessor of a ragged handkerchief tied flag fashion to the end of his tail, he is called out by all of them.
It is rarely that drink or opium—both forbidden indulgences by their religion—helps to aid their murder-frenzy.

A Wyoming Ball.

Miss _____, from Wilder's glade, says a reporter describing a far-western ball, which was held in a handsome ball room ball groined buckskin dress, with army blanket overskirt, bottom looped up with buckskin strings cut bias.
Hair drawn down in ringlets, and worn several fresh sprigs of sage brush, the twined secured behind in a bunch with a handsome pin made with a pine splitting and a silver disk in which was a picture of a mountain cat-skin cap, fastened with antelope tails, secured under the chain with a rattlesnake skin.
Her feet were encased in buckskin moccasins, decorated with beads and soldier buttons. She created a huge sensation as she entered the hall hanging upon the arm of Mr. _____, a gentleman from _____, who was dressed in the style of his locality—buckskin breeches in boots, hunting shirt of the same, ornamented with a belt of the latest pattern around his waist securing a pair of six shooters and a horse bowie knife, which set off his gallant figure. As the dance followed this handsome couple, round the hall. Several ladies and gentlemen from the _____ district, in which _____ resided, expressed themselves well pleased with the manner in which the party was conducted. Their frequent exclamations of "Oh, how bright," "How good," "And it's fruit, though," "hoop la," etc., plainly indicated that they were enjoying themselves in the most pleasant manner.
